CAN EQUIPMENT MAKE OR BREAK A MULTILINGUAL EVENT?

Throughout our work in the UAE, we've had the pleasure of interpreting at major events where local and global decision makers discussed the future.

For example, in 2019 we interpreted for the Global Forum for Innovation in Agriculture and the World Ocean Summit, among others. In 2020, we worked at the World Urban Forum, organized by UN-Habitat to promote sustainable urban development.

Our proudest moment was participating in the historic visit of Pope Francis in February 2019. We provided simultaneous interpreting for the Interreligious Meeting and for the Pope's speech. This was both a great opportunity and a big challenge: there was no room for the smallest mistake or inaccuracy, as the eyes and ears of the world were pointing at us.

These kinds of events involve a lot of complex technology. Simultaneous interpreters work with at least one colleague in a soundproof booth. They wear a pair of headphones and speak into a microphone. Their interpretation is transmitted to the target audience in real time, via a headset connected to wireless receivers.

As one might expect, truly reliable specialized interpreting equipment is crucial. Our technical team is dedicated to making sure everything is set up correctly and runs smoothly during the event. We own our Bosch equipment, and we have partnerships that allow us to mobilize extra resources whenever needed.

MEDICAL VIDEO REMOTE INTERPRETING: WE KNOW IT CAN SAVE MONEY. CAN IT ALSO SAVE LIVES?

When it comes to healthcare, translation can save lives. From identifying symptoms to receiving informed consent, healthcare professionals must ensure they understand and are understood by their patients. US Studies show that there is a high chance of costly and preventable medical errors when hospitals are not properly equipped to serve all their patients — in the languages they speak. This is especially true in multilingual countries or countries with large expat populations.

Video Remote Interpreting, as the best solution for breaking language barriers in emergency medical situations, is now more relevant than ever. It grants fast access to interpreters — even on short notice — while avoiding further risk of contagion.

With this technology, specialized interpreters connect to the hospital over a video app on any device, allowing medical professionals to communicate with patients. The video allows both verbal communication as well as body language to be taken into account.

This solution is also ideal for other organizations that regularly face situations requiring quick response times, such as, airports, courts, hotels and restaurants, and public offices.

SOMETIMES, YOU NEED MORE THAN EXPERT INTERPRETERS AND RELIABLE TECH.

THE ROLE OF PMS.

We know the complexity of arranging an event, especially larger one. That's why we take care of all aspects of interpreting and translation for our clients.

Every project, whether it is a major international conference or a business meeting, is very important to us. The Project Managers coordinate the resources, stakeholders and assets needed, to make sure everything goes exactly as it should.

Sometimes it can be more challenging than usual. In April 2019 for example, a delegation of Italian policy makers and business owners, led by Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Economic Development Luigi Di Maio, visited the UAE to further the economic relations between Italy and the Emirates. During their three-day visit, the delegation moved between Dubai, Abu Dhabi, and Sharjah. The assignment included consecutive and simultaneous interpretation over different days, and across different locations, each with their own specific resources and equipment requirements.

An important task of the PM is making sure that interpreters are provided with as much information as possible prior to the event, to guarantee that they are properly prepared for any topic. At the same time, there must be room for last minute changes. This happened to us at the Hay Festival, the traditional gathering of writers and intellectuals from all around the world, also called “the Woodstock of the Mind”. The 2020 edition was held in Abu Dhabi, with more than 50 events held in 7 languages. On that occasion, thanks to the dedication of our PM team, we were able to provide Arabic-German interpreting services as a very last minute request.

We rely on the availability and efficiency of our dedicated team of account and project managers, and their ability to communicate effectively with all the involved parties.

REMOTE SIMULTANEOUS INTERPRETING

Interpreting has traditionally been a face-to-face job. In the last few years, different remote interpreting solutions that rely on cloud technology have become available. These technologies significantly reduce the cost of interpretation by eliminating the need for flights and accommodation.

In 2019, we solidified our experience with Remote Simultaneous Interpreting (RSI) technologies at a workshop organized by Thermo King, a leading company in transport refrigeration. Thanks to this interpreting technology, the audience in Abu Dhabi could select their desired language and get instant translations from interpreters working from their offices in Europe. This was the most effective way to provide high quality live translation in English, French, German, Italian, Polish, and Russian.

Nowadays, due to the Covid-19 emergency, virtually all companies hold their conferences and meetings online. Although video conferencing technology has existed for decades, the ability to embed RSI is more recent.

This technology allows teams to communicate with each other in different languages, while following work-from-home policies or other safety measures designed to limit in-person contact.

A very good example is a series of online workshops led by a Saudi multinational corporation, which we interpreted. We were able to deliver online and interactive training sessions in Arabic and English for marketing departments located in Egypt, the UAE, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and India, using a web conferencing app. Our two senior interpreters worked remotely from home, delivering simultaneous interpretations on two separate audio channels for over 6 hours a day. The whole process was coordinated by our online technicians and project managers.

IT'S NOT JUST ABOUT KNOWING THE LANGUAGE: SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS FOR SPECIALIZED INTERPRETATION.

For a simultaneous interpreter, perfect command of both languages is obviously a must. Producing the translation simultaneously, at the same time as the speech is delivered, is also a specialized skill that takes years of training to master.

In many cases, this is still not enough. For example, in 2018, we interpreted at a global event dedicated to cryptocurrencies. We interpreted from English into Russian, Chinese, Portuguese, Italian, Spanish, and Korean.

The previous year, we supported the 26 Italian companies who took part in the Specialty Food Festival. We provided language support in Italian, English, and Arabic. This was no easy task, as food is linked to culture, and delicious bits of information can get lost in translation.

On many occasions, we had the pleasure of interpreting high profile sporting events: from the Globe Soccer Awards to the Asian Cup and the Dakar Rally. All our interpreters needed to have specific knowledge of each specific sport and the culture around it.

In such cases, the interpreter needs to have knowledge of a very specialized field, which is why it is important to be able to draw from a vast pool of trusted professionals. This way, we can select the right resources for each project, based on their field of specialization.

OUR COMMITMENT TO SUPPORTING THE UAE'S COMMUNICATION

Our UAE clients praise our linguists for their ability to combine perfect mastery of Modern Standard Arabic with local knowledge of the cultural, political and religious nuances of these countries.

Over the years, we have provided English and Arabic interpretation at many local government conferences and launches, such as the launch of Hassantuk system, the Zayed Sustainability Prize organized by Masdar, and the Invest in Sharjah report, to name only a few, recent examples.

A very interesting project was the filming of a five-part documentary series, The Emirates Story by Atlantic Productions, which describes the history, archaeology, and culture of the United Arab Emirates. During various filming trips, Atlantic Productions used our simultaneous interpreters to translate their interviews with various Emirati archaeologists, historians, museum curators, falconry experts, camel herders, and more. Our interpreters travelled with the film crew and acted as guides, helping with the everyday language barriers that the crew faced.

To ensure they could accomplish this, we selected our professional interpreters based on their knowledge of the filming locations across the UAE.

They had to be flexible and able to quickly adapt to the needs of their linguistic environment.

THE ROLE OF CONSECUTIVE INTERPRETING

Consecutive interpretation is used during small group events. The speech is translated either after every sentence, or at the end of the speech, with the aid of notes. Up to eight minutes of a speech can be interpreted at a time. This type of interpretation does not require any equipment, and is particularly suitable for presentations, press conferences and workshops.

A couple of examples: the Time magazine interview with Petr Khodykin, the owner of Trade House RIF, Russia's largest grain exporter and one of its fastest developing companies, or the press conference for the launch of Sacred Games, the first original Netflix series produced in India.

Consecutive interpretation is changing. As the capabilities of videoconferencing and cloud computing continue to grow, it is becoming increasingly remote, with interpreters working over a video app on any device such as smartphones, tablets, or computers.

Business, or liaison interpreting, is a particular type of consecutive interpretation, suitable for small business negotiations and business meetings. Often, at international trade fairs in the UAE, delegates from all over the world need linguistic support to communicate in Arabic and English.

We have a long track record of supporting during these events, such as ADIPEC, BIG 5, WorldSkills.
